DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 10-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Marcon (United States Patent No. 6,102,050).

Marcon discloses flossing one's teeth with silk, however does not specify the type of silk used. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use spider silk as the silk in the method of Marcon, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments, filed 6 December 2006, with respect to Holmes have been fully considered and are persuasive. It is agreed that upon closer inspection of this article does not disclose flossing ones teeth but rather application of silk to caries. This rejection of the claims has been withdrawn.

Applicant's arguments filed 6 December 2006 with regard to Marcon have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that silkworm silk and spider silk are not functional equivalent materials, however the rejection of the claims did deal with substitution of functional equivalents, but rather selection of a known material on the basis of its physical properties. It has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
